Thank you to everyone who continues to partner with us in prayer. When you pray, things start happening!

Sabrina is, Sadly, Not Well

Sabrina recently spent four days in the hospital here in Chiang Mai with a bad case of vomiting, dizziness and a possible intestinal infection. However, after running all sorts of test, the doctors had no clue as to the true cause of her illness. After a couple of days of antibiotics and a slew of tests, she finally was able to come home and rest, but found that she was still having some symptoms to which we had no answers. A couple more trips to the doctor revealed that they have no idea why she is still feeling so ill. The last doctor she visited suggested that she stop all medication in case one of those is the issue and then to come back after two weeks and that is where we are at now. Please pray that Sabrina will recover and we all still praise God for His goodness no matter what.

Church Planting Vision

Prayer is the key! At this point I can teach and preach in Thai which brings me to a sufficient level of mastery to begin on the next goal I feel. Of course, I will never stop learning Thai, but it will encourage as my major ministry focus this November. There is a lot of opportunity out there, so please pray for some clarity.

A Great Encouragement

Pastor Green here at Trinity Baptist Church, which is still the church that we are helping at while we are in language school, recently shared an email from an Australian gentleman who said that he was saved after visiting the church here about three years ago. It was a great encouragement and a reminder that God is still at work saving souls and the gospel is still the power of God unto salvation. If we are faithful and do not faint, we will see souls saved.

Interesting Thailand Fact: If you are late for a meeting and contact your friend to let them know you are running late, in English we say "I am coming." In Thai they say, "I am going."
